國立政治大學商學院學友制度心得報告

Buddy Program Reflection

學號	中文姓名	参加學友制學期	外籍學友英文全名
111305103	陳冠維	111-2	Felix Masselter

1. 學友簡介

• 第一次聯繫及 email 截圖

企一甲陳冠維 <111305103@g.nccu.edu.tw>

12月10日 週六 中午12:47 (5 天前)

寄給 f.masselter ▼

To Felix Masselter,

Hi, This is Jack Chen from NCCU, Taiwan.

I'm currently freshman year in Business Administration department at school. Just want to send this letter to welcome you to Taiwan, and if you have any questic let me know.

Best regards

Masselter, Felix (Stud. SBE)

12月10日 週六 下午6:34

Hey, nice to meet you Jack! I am not sure what the most common communication application is but feel free to add me on Whatsapp: +352 621 779 684 ------

Felix is from Luxembourg He studied MIS in Maastricht University. He came to Asia for exchange programs his girlfriend in China. We had dinner a few weeks after semester started. Mike (the other buddy) and I chatted with him and shared about our personal life.

2. 學友最喜歡台灣哪一點

Since my buddy usually stays on the school campus, he only gave me opinion on Taipei. He thinks Taipei is really convenient and people are generally willing to observe the traffic law, which he thinks is an indication of a civilized country. Also, he thinks NCCU has a really good natural scenario when it is not raining. He enjoys the environment of school quite well.

3. 接待心得

I have a really good time with my buddy. We both share some similarity in our personalities (we were both quite reserved and introverted), as well as interests (We both like to go to the gym and play basketball). We would usually meet on a weekly basis, and we really talked a lot about the cultural differences between Taiwan and Europe. For example, education in the Europe focuses on interactions and critical thinking while here in Asia, we usually emphasis on absorbing knowledge and practice. Another example is the general belief. In the West, people are usually more individualistic, and the pressure from social conformity is a lot less common there in Europe. Here in Taiwan, my buddy gave a lot of example about weird rule or behavior that he thinks is about "The face" (面子). For instance, he thinks it's weird that people try to reject others' help even they're in despair, just for the sack of "The face." Also, he shared with me some differences between Europe living environment and Taiwan. In Europe, social welfare really provides people with a decent life even though they're in relatively law classes. But here in Taiwan, even with some subsidy, the poor might not have the life as that in Europe.

I am really happy and grateful to have this opportunity to attend the buddy program. Besides making new friends from other countries and improving my English fluency, I really learned a lot about Taiwan culture from a foreign perspective, which has made me reflect on my old beliefs and generate new thoughts. I really appreciate the establish of the program, and I really hope that I can take part in the Buddy Program AGAIN!

▼The photo was shot in the commerce building. I invited my buddy as the interviewee for the foreign culture investigation for the ETP course project.

