

Copenhagen Business School

--The business school from the design capital of the world

Copenhagen business school is one of the largest business schools in Europe. It was established in 1917, and currently has 600 staff and close to 20,000 students. Copenhagen business school have decided to become one of the most international schools trying to get connections with other universities and attract international talents. Throughout the years he has achieved ruefully one out of three students as international students. Students can be coming here as of exchange students were regular international student.

Unlike a lot of the schools in Taiwan, Copenhagen business school is spread widely in one city which is of course the city of Copenhagen. One of the clusters consists of two large buildings and one smaller building is commonly known as the main campus of the Copenhagen business school. The picture above is one of one of the buildings that is located in the main campus while the other building as you can see from the picture to the right.

These pictures were taken during fulltime however during wintertime, snow will cover the entire grassy area.

Copenhagen business school has a lot in dish and any candy easily seen by the way school is designed. The campus is designed by famous architect and even the dormitory is well known as the best, terry ever built. Copenhagen business school has a lot of leading researches happening. The school is setup to educate the leaders of tomorrow, therefore the staff emphasize all leadership and personal achievement along with the team. For instance, the winter events are governed by students every year new officers will be elected and to decide how they want to run the dorm. This intrudes how are they getting the money how are only using the money and even hold delay pick as their neighbors.

This is a picture taken off one of their cafeteria. Food is often served over here us buffet style however if food is weighted encapsulated by the weight and students paid the amount accord only to the weight. The quality of the food is really good at seeing the whole plank of salmon many times on the dish before.

The picture to the right was taken from one of my lunch. This dish is called the open sandwich wish Danish people are very proud of. They think this is a combination of art and food.
