

Trip to Tai O village in Hong Kong

On 18th March 2013, Department of Business Administration in the school organized one day visit to Tai O fishing village in Hong Kong. The purpose of the visit was to understand how a social entrepreneurship works and how a private company has converted a historical police station into a Hotel and help it preserve over the time.

They opened this trip to all the business administration students on first come first serve basis. I opted to go and it was very good chance for me to see this beautiful village. It took about almost one and half hour to reach there and it started raining as soon as we arrived. We ran towards the police station as none of us had umbrellas. We were bit wet already and we were welcomed by the hotel manager. In a short while she showed us around and gave a little presentation about how the hotel works and what are their core values. Presentation was followed by question and answer round.

They then asked us to eat something in the restaurant as part of the charity support. As some of us had to attend their class same evening, we had to leave early and could not stay for dinner. So we were 5 people who left early and arrived in Town Centre on time to attend our classes.

It was a very interesting place to visit. While leaving it in a hurry, I thought I would go back, but that never happened.
